Tenant-In-Common Association Launches New Web site

INDIANAPOLIS — October 11, 2007 — The Tenant-In-Common Association (TICA) launches its newly redesigned web site, www.ticassoc.org. This updated site features many improvements including a cleaner appearance, improved functionality and more user-friendly navigation.

TICA's enhanced web site better communicates with members and visitors by allowing them easier access to information. Visitors can search for tenant-in-common professionals including broker/dealers, lenders, sponsors, real estate agents, registered representatives, investment advisors, qualified intermediaries and others in their area. Search by zip code, type of company, city, state or company name on the member locator and contact the professional directly by e-mail or visit their web site.

Other new and improved site features include:

- Online Membership Application and Renewal System—TIC professionals can sign up to become a member online and current members can renew their membership through the new, secure processing system.
- Online Ordering System—TICA members can quickly order educational materials, newsletters and other marketing pieces online with the new e-commerce ordering system included in the TICA website.
- Site Search—Visitors can easily find what they are looking for by typing in a keyword and searching the site.
- Calendar—Members can view all upcoming Association events on the online calendar.
- Forums—This feature gives members the opportunity to share their thoughts on current issues in the industry and network with other professionals in the industry.
- Membership Directory—Members can easily access the membership directory online including all members contact information.
